

Common Safety Training Program

Drilling

Duration

3 days (plus on the job appraisal)

The Common Safety Training Program is being conducted to support the oil and gas industry to improving the safety behaviours of personnel entering the industry.

This safety behavioral program has been designed by Industry for Industry to reflect knowledge and skills represented through 6 key areas:

- The Safety Case and Safety Management Systems
- Work Under an Issued Permit
- Identify Hazards and Risks
- Contribute to Safe Work Practices
- Control Minor Incidents
- Respond to an Emergency

The program requires demonstration of behaviours both in the workplace and during training of industry defined observable behaviours which on successful completion of the program participants will receive a Common Safety Training Card which will be issued by an independent reviewer operating at the discretion of the oil and gas industry.

Content

This course includes one day's practical experience on a fully operational training rig including:

- Reasons for a Safety Case and Safety Management System
- Recognise the importance and reasons for different work permits
- Comply with permit conditions including the wearing of appropriate personal protective equipment (PPE)
- Take appropriate action to resolve faults or report faults to appropriate personnel
- Explain and implement incident response procedures.
- Identify hazards and assess risk
- Initiate suggestions to enhance task/job-specific safety
- Follow procedures for risk control.
- Follow emergency procedures
- Apply knowledge of OHS legislation and the organisation OHS policies and procedures
- Evaluate, control and conclude incident control

Certification

On successful completion of trainees will be issued with a Statement of Attainment for:

- MSAPMOHS110A Follow Emergency Procedures,
- MSAPMOHS200A Work Safely,
- MSAPMOHS205A Control Minor Incidents,
- MSAPMPER200B Work in Accordance with issued Permit

Contact Details

For further information or to make a booking please call our Customer Service Team on (08) 9417 6900.